KING OF GREECE A SOLDIER UMBRELLA UNDER HIS FEET

Constantine Received an Excellent Military Education and Has Given Proof of Skill.

Constantine, the new king of Greece, is of Danish and Russian blood, his father having been a son of Christian IX. of Denmark, and his mother being the eldest daughter of the Grand Duke Constantine, a brother of Alexander II. King Constantine was born in Athens, and brought up under an English governess and German and Greek tutors. Later on he went to Berlin, where he received his education as a soldier, being attached to the Second regiment of Prussian Foot Guards. In 1897 he took command of the Greek troops in the war with Turkey, but his army was crushed in Thessaly. In April last he was appointed inspector general of the forces and has since shown himself a soldier of merit. At the moment of his accession he was in Epirus, conducting the military operations for sweeping the Turks out of that province.

THIS PASTOR WAS NO SPORT

He Spoiled the Young Man's Proposal Wrestling Match With His Dark Angel.

A young man anxious to have some one wrestle with his dark angel announced dramatically to his pastor that he was tempted to break one of the commandments. His pastor, always effective and original, thought him of a homeopathic cure, and responded coolly: "Well, why don't you do it?" The wrestling match was off. The dark angel sneaked away without a peep. The boy went home feeling as if he had been spanked and laughed at. The parson was no sport.

DECORATIONS.

"You got this description of my hat wrong," declared the Fiji queen. "You say it had a cluster of bows over one ear."

"What is wrong?" faltered the society reporter.

"It was a cluster of ears over one bow."

THEN WHICH?

Bona—Had a tooth pulled yesterday.

Fide—Did you take chloroform or gas?

Bona—Thank God, not ether.—Texas Coyote.

BASEBALL TALENT.

"Do you notice how serious Sluggem is at bat, while Buntline is quite lively?"

"Well, Sluggem was in tragedy all winter, while Buntline played in light farce."

MIXED LANGUAGE.

"This aviation business is going to make a great confusion in words."

"How so?"

"Here they're talking of an aviator who has just gained a footing by his flights."

EVERY WOMAN.

"A woman always wants the last word."

"The last word would never satisfy my wife."

"You surprise me?"

"She wants all of them."

PEEVISH.

"I had to kill my dog this morning."

"Was he mad?"

"Well, he didn't seem any too well pleased."

HER MISTAKE.

"Our teacher told Jim Jones always to look straight ahead in life."

"Well, what's the matter with that?"

"Jim's cross-eyed."

ONE ROUTE.

"What do you think of that woman's acting?"

"I don't see how she got on the stage. Who did she ever shoot?"

A PREVENTIVE.

"I wish, Jane, you would not powder your face so much. It makes a girl look loud."

"But, pa, I use noiseless powder."

SEEKING EXCITEMENT.

"I long for adventure."

"Why don't you go to Boston and split an infinitive?"

Even That Plan Didn't Keep Cleveland Man From Losing the Article.

Attorney W. H. Boyd can lose more umbrellas than any man in Cleveland. Time after time he blossoms forth, equipped with a highly ornate and exceedingly expensive umbrella, and by the time evening comes there is nothing left but a disgusted look.

One rainy day recently Boyd appeared at a downtown cafe for his luncheon and sat at a table with James A. Newkirk, County Commissioner Elrick and Martin Thumm.

Boyd was desperately clutching a new umbrella.

"This doesn't belong to me," he announced. "I borrowed it and I don't intend to lose it."

"Tie it to the table leg," Thumm suggested.

"Get the waiter to hold it for you," Elrick volunteered.

"Have 'em put it in the safe," Newkirk advised.

Boyd ignored them all. He placed the umbrella on the floor and planted both feet firmly upon it, to the hilarious delight of his friends. Then, when he finished his luncheon, he walked away and left it.—Cleveland News.

NO WONDER

First Germ—My gracious, old man, but you look bad! What's the matter?

Second Germ—Yep, I'm about all in. The last party I tackled was a pessimist.

SOON EXHAUSTED.

"The most unpromising man sometimes shows surprising spirit when put on his mettle."

"Quite so, but unfortunately the strain on him is so great that he can't hold up for a minute longer than the occasion absolutely demands."

ITS INCONVENIENCES.

"Many a girl firmly believes her face is her fortune."

"Yes, and many an investment of that kind has some very bad features."

ALWAYS SOMETHING.

"The high cost of living doesn't bother a rich man like you."

"Not greatly, I'll admit. What annoys me principally is that income tax."

SERENE NOW.

"Plimly prides himself on taking a philosophic view of life."

"That's because he has just recently had his teeth put in first-class order by a competent dentist."

IN JOYOUS MOOD.

"Nero fiddled while Rome burned!"

"Yes," replied a member of the "arson trust." "He was probably thinking about the fire insurance."

ODD CASE.

"The man they ejected from the hall was burning with rage."

"Yes, and strange to say, he was full of fire after they put him out."

HIS ADVANTAGE.

"A bald king is unlike other men in one way."

"What is that?"

"He can have heirs apparent."

JUST BREEZED BY!

Nowy—How did you pass your vacation?

Stoppit—I didn't; it was too fast for me!—Jack O'Lantern.

BUSINESS AND SPORT.

"Suppose that ball team manages to win all the games it plays?"

"We'll get even with it. We'll have it indicted for monopoly."
